

SOME TOWNS THAT HAVE DISAPPEARED IN RECENT YEARS

Railroads Sometimes Work Havoc With Villages.

THORNTON ONCE BIG TOWN NOW HAS NEW NAME

Most of the people who have lived in New Mexico for five years or more can remember when the town of Thornton, or Wallace as it was first called, was a flourishing village, with prospects of growing to good size and great prosperity. Thornton is on the Santa Fe forty miles north of Albuquerque. Most people have forgotten that Thornton was a town. The little round house which looks out the window for Thornton now a day, will conclude that it has been removed from the map, and so it has. The very railroad station, and the remnant of an abandoned water tank has been taken away. Instead of the railroad buildings there is just a long pine board bearing the name, "Domingo." The name was changed to make the way station a part of the neighboring Indian pueblo of Santa Domingo. Thornton has gone out of existence. A number of circumstances have combined to wipe out the town. It had no water, and with a flourishing mining district. The mining district has been closed down for some time, chiefly through ruinous litigation. The railroad completed the job by taking away the little round house and water tank that once stood there. It is the story of many another town in the west where cities grew up in months and where in the newer regions population in hundreds shifts in a night.

According to traveling men who have just returned from eastern New Mexico, there is likely to be another instance of a flourishing town wiped out, through the combined withdrawal of railroad and mining activity. This is the town of North Clayton. With the purchase of the Northeastern system by the Philadelphia company, it is said that the coal mines at North Clayton will be closed for good. Many of the company houses have been moved away and it is even stated that the branch railroad running out of Lincoln county may be torn up. This, however, is not credited.

Two years ago Clayton was one of the busiest coal mining towns in the territory. Several hundred men were employed in the mines there and the village was new and fresh painted and flourishing. The miners have not left New Mexico. They have merely been transferred to other fields where coal is less expensively mined and of better quality.

VARSITY PLAYS LOCAL INDIANS THIS AFTERNOON

GAME WITH SANTA FE GOVERNMENT SCHOOL TEAM WEEK FROM TODAY.

On the Indian school grounds this afternoon the Varsity football team will meet the Santa Fe Indians. The game is anticipated. The Varsity boys have been practicing most faithfully all the week and in fact ever since the season was announced and were never in better shape to play a winning game. The Varsity Indians have also been improving their spare hours on the field and are in splendid condition. The game will undoubtedly be a fast and hard fought one and many will go out to see it. It will be an interesting exhibition as giving a pointer or two on what the Varsity will do for itself when it meets the Santa Fe Indians at Traction park a week from today. The Santa Fe Indians are a formidable proposition, but the locals believe that as a result of their training practice and hard training, they will be able to put the Ancient city red men out of commission.

TRIED TO BREAK IN WITH AN AX

ENTERPRISE BURGLAR WAS MAKING HIS WAY INTO DR. H. CHAMBERLIN'S RESIDENCE.

A well dressed stranger, of whom the police have a very minute description, was caught last night in the act of forcing an entrance into Dr. H. Chamberlin's residence on West Railroad avenue. The burglar did not get caught, for although he was in the hands of both the doctor and J. L. Walker, a neighbor, for half a minute, he managed to get away.

The burglar was at work on a rear window when Dr. Chamberlin entered his yard. The man was using an axe with which to pry open the window and had succeeded in raising the sash several inches when the interruption came. The man dropped the axe and made for the street, running into the arms of two men who managed to hold him just long enough to get a good look at him. The burglar gave one quick turn which set him free, and took to his heels. Up to 7 o'clock this morning he had not been found. The attempt at house-breaking occurred early in the evening.

DEPUTY SHERIFF APPEALS CASE TO DISTRICT COURT

Arrested by Police for Carrying Concealed Weapons.

SAYS HE WAS INSTRUCTED TO POLICE THE TENDERLOIN

A Frenchman named Eugene Johnson, who gives that name to the police, was released from jail yesterday evening, to which place he was committed by Judge Crawford in police court yesterday morning on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was released on a bond of $100, given by Joe Badaracco and M. Azario, for his appearance before the district court on an appeal from the lower court.

Johnson, who was arrested by Officer Kennedy for having an enormous brand new shining forty-five Colt's revolver in his jeans, appeared before the court yesterday morning with a fully armed and executed commission as deputy sheriff of Bernalillo county. Johnson, who has been living in the back of Joe Badaracco's saloon on North Third street, alleges that he was given orders by the sheriff's office to make his headquarters in the tenderloin, where the saloon is located, and in case he found anyone violating the law, to arrest that offender and take him to the county jail. This would be a rather high handed proceeding and while Sheriff Armijo was out of the city and could not be seen yesterday, there was an impression that the man had misinterpreted his orders, which he claimed to have received from a deputy who denies having given him such instructions.

The man came to the city a few weeks ago from Texas and speaks English very imperfectly. The man was assessed a fine of $50 and costs by Judge Crawford and upon refusing to pay the same was committed to jail where he was later released on bond, having appealed his case to the district court.

It is not clear if the deputy sheriff's commission is valid, how Johnson can be fined for carrying concealed weapons and it also not clear why he should be instructed to invade the jurisdiction of the city police and hate tenders against city ordinances.

It is likely that the case will be cleared up by a statement from the sheriff.
